LIVING THE LITURGY: The Call

It can happen anywhere, anytime, to anyone. Isaiah was praying at the Temple. Simon and his companions were busy at their work. Paul was traveling while in a foul mood, dead set against the followers of Jesus, determined to keep them from ruining the Traditions of the Jewish Religion. In each of these unexpected moments God suddenly breaks in.

And when that happens, when one confronts the One of supreme holiness, goodness, graciousness, and mercy, one's own inadequacies and sinfulness become so apparent. Isaiah cries out, "Woe is me! I am doomed!" while Simon Peter exclaims, "Depart from me, Lord, for I am a sinful man." Even Paul acknowledges, "I am not fit to be called an apostle." Nevertheless, God calls and gives each a mission to fulfill.

We, too, have such a mission, whether we have had an overwhelming experience of God's goodness or not. Despite our weaknesses and sinfulness, it is God's grace that fills us. The mission is never dependent on the worthiness of the minister but upon God's grace. When we say yes to cooperating with God, God fills in the gaps of our abilities and makes wonderful things happen.

Reflect on your own call experience. When did you first feel that God was calling you to serve more intentionally?

How do your own weaknesses inform your work and help you to see with the eyes of mercy?

Making Bread — A Spiritual Experience —

Last Saturday, February 1st, Ted Wall invited 24 participants on a journey that had them participating in a new, joyous, spiritual occasion where Breadmaking and Scripture could help sharpen their faith, and fill them with God's special message.

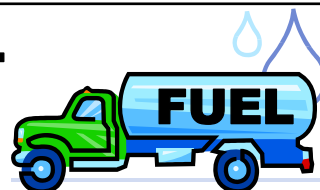

Following their journey they all were invited to enjoy pieces of Ted's own fresh baked pumpernickel and artisan multi-grain breads ~ each one a fine example of Ted's polished skills as a baker.
